“ I remember when we were kids she always made a special birthday cake for each of us, every birthday even into our teen years. When I was very young she made a "reading tree" for my younger sister and me where when we read a book she wrote the name of the book on a paper leaf and added it to tree. My sister Angie had way more "leaves" than I did, but it taught me to appreciate reading throughout my life. She did so many good things for all of us kids and certainly put up with a lot while we grew up. I remember every Christmas as kids my sister Angie and I always woke up before everyone else and would anxiously wait for the rest of the family to wake up so we could open presents, our mom would make us wait on the stairs for a Christmas picture before we could open presents. She was a very special and unique woman. We will miss her very much, I know I certainly will. Her son Thomas Hysell
