“ I visited Bette from time to time as well as talked to her on the phone for many years. I always brought her something whether her favorite - a chocolate shake from McDonald's, or a miniature red velvet or German chocolate cake or some home made chocolate chip cookies. One time I came with shake and before i could take a sip of mine she was done. We had a good laugh. We always talked about the Lord and her family. I would read scriptures to her and she would from memory say the verses aloud. One time I took my granddaughter Paetyn with me and it really cheered up Bette. We had great talks and I got to know all about her and her family. She said she was ready to go and see her husband Richard and her Savior Jesus Christ. She is no longer in any physical bondage and her life has just begun. She is more alive than ever. I will miss her but will see her again.

“ Some of my favorite childhood memories were the Thanksgiving dinners you had at your home. You and my Mom, and sometimes my Grandma, would spend hours in the kitchen preparing a feast. Us kids knew to stay out of the kitchen while the magic was being done. Rich and I would spend this time exploring the channel off the Fox River. After a wonderful dinner and excellent pies, the men would settle in the living room and watch the NFL football game on TV, leaving the women to clean up (I saw nothing wrong with this at the time). Uncle Dick would let loose with some of the loudest cheers when his team did something good. His cheering was infectious and soon we would all be screaming at the TV. The memories of these occasions and others are testaments to the loving home you provided and the love you showed for family. You will forever be in my heart.
