“ Carl and I knew each other from Faith Baptist Church, a number of years ago. I remember his talking about his daughter's health issues. I left FBC and lost contact with him, but heard about his death, probably from some of his friends who are in my husband's Bible study. I was sad to hear that you had to say goodbye to Carl, and right before Christmas, yet. The empty chair at the table makes a palpable absence. Today is Resurrection Sunday, when we remember Christ's death for our sins, and His resurrection, that guarantees Carl's! I am so glad that Carl is fine now, and that he'll be back with a body that can't get sick or die again. Meanwhile, they don't call it "Heaven" for nothing. May your family circle someday be unbroken.
