“ To Joe's Daughters & grandchildren,

My deepest sympathies are with you today although I live too far away to be with you in person..I considered Joe to be one of my best friends, someone with whom we could both share our deepest thoughts, ideas, and stories. I worked at Abbott with Joe, played golf with him and knew him for many years. He told me more than once how he enjoyed you girls coming to his home every Sunday, bringing goodies and visiting. He enjoyed telling me about the grandchildren and what they were doing and were interested in. I also remember how he used to tell me how he would take each of you out to eat and shop for Christmas gifts for you individually when you were still at home and in school. He seemed to enjoy that very much.

After we moved away from Ill. 13 years ago I didn't see Joe very much but we still talked on the phone every few months. In fact only one or two days before his accident we had a long phone conversation, catching up on everything, telling stories and having a few laughs. In fact we planned to have an online Scrabble game in the near future! But I guess that plan will have to wait for a while.

I remember especially the 60th birthday party you had for your dad at home. Myra and I both enjoyed that very much.

Take care and God Bless all of you.....
