“ I want to share something, I thought was beautiful. First I have to give you an idea of who this person is. She has always in her short little life responded to the energy, tone and emotions of those around her. While held in her daddy's arms she shied away from seeing or saying goodbye to someone laying to rest, while also seeing so many saying goodbye with tears in their eyes. She had it explained to her that he was going to be with the angels, god and his kitty cat in heaven. She interacted with others in that same room, then proceeded to sit next to me and tell me “this is a beautiful room” amongst all the tears, strange faces and new conversation, she could see what most of us could not. The Beauty and love that filled that room.

“ There are no words that I can say. I can't imagine the heart ache. I can't say I will pray for you, I am sorry, all of those things are meaningless when there is a huge whole in your heart. I am here always to listen. I am here to give you a hug and just cry. I am here if you need to scream. I am here. We love you soooo much and I felt I knew Kyle from our many talks...He was your everything. The Bushings, Nicole Bushing

“ This is so heartbreaking. My thoughts and prayers are with Jeanne and Jamie and their families as they mourn this tragic loss. 🙏 Kyle was a wonderful person. He always lit up when we (my kids and I) would see him around town and always gave me a big hug. We watched him grow up and it kills me to think he's gone. He was the sweetest to my oldest son years ago when I still worked at Libertyville P.O. and hung out with my bestie, his mom, Jeanne. Even though he was 5 years older he treated my little guy like his best bud whenever they were together. To this day I have saved the sweet letter he wrote to him probably two decades ago. I can still clearly remember the two of them playing with Kyle's birthday presents on Jeanne's kitchen floor and us taking them out for pizza at Quonset. Years later, I will never forget the joy I had when my husband John sent a photo one morning from the Post Office with the question, "Guess who I'm training today?" It was Kyle, all grown up. It really touched my heart and I felt so proud of him. He was a great kid and a good and kind young man. He will never be forgotten. 💔

“ Kyle was one of those type of guys that brought a smile to your face when you saw him. He was a close friend at work, and was always willing to match your energy and provide support when needed. I hope throughout his life he realized what an impact his smiling face made, and how his laugh and happiness will not be so easily replaced. We're going to miss you buddy...until we meet again.

“ About 10 or 15 years ago Margie and I were visiting Wisconsin. Kyle met us at a store. I hadn't seen him in probably 10 years.... Maybe more. We started talking and discovered we were both big wrestling fans. After that visit Kyle and I kept in touch. We'd talk on the phone a couple of times a year about wrestling. He was a huge fan in The Miz and often talked about how The Miz was the best wrestler working today. I'd often think of Kyle when wrestling was on. I will miss him dearly.

“ Kyle my Grandson was a special young man. He liked doing things with me, including driving to Michigan with me to set up a play house swing set for his younger cousins. He came over to my house every week to cut our grass and help us with different things around the house. It was a joy to have him around. I will miss him every day until it's my time to join him. He was always his mother's side kick, My deepest sympathy and condolences for her, I'll be here to help her continue with life without him. Love you Kyle Schrader May you RIP.
