“ Mr. and Mrs. Mark lived next door to our family on 115th Street in Chicago. For a very young girl you could have not asked for better neighbors. Mrs. Mark had a box of beautiful clothes that she would let me play dress up with. I would sit in her back yard under their weeping willow tree for hours wearing the most glamorous gowns and shoes that had to be seen to be believed. I remembered she was a buyer for Gassman's and Mr. Mark was the manager at Goldblatts on 79th Street. Whenever we were in the store we would stop in his office to say hello. I feel really lucky and honored to have had the chance to know both of them and were able to be in their lives for that (too) short period of time. They really gave me the opportunity to witness true class at a very young age. I am so sorry for your loss but know that she did impact one young girls life in a very positive way.
