“ I had only known Steve for the past 15 months while working with him at the theatre, but I felt I had known him for many years. We had an enjoyable friendly relationship and I always looked forward to working with him. He always had a smile and a story or a joke to share with me. He always was ready to lend me and others a helping hand. We had many similar experiences over the years in our individual lives and I always looked forward to sharing our stories with each other. I will truly miss my friend Steve.
