“ Dear colleague, it's been nearly 2 years and I still can't quite grasp what happened. Found this page by chance and decided to “talk” into the silence that there has been since then. I just overworked and dedicated a paper to you I was working on when you decided to go. So our colleagues will remember you have been there and you will be with us again whenever the paper is read. Teresa, “The Brain”. Don't know if you knew how reverently we admired your erudition and how scaring your intellectual capacity sometimes was. You had it all, the stage was yours. Your restless soul just didn't find a place in this world to feel calm and happy, obviously. I'm still sorry we didn't spend enough time on gossiping and laughing together and couldn't make it a right place and time to be. Sure you are happy now there, but here, we still wish you back. Cheers, my dear, we'll meet you there one day.

“Teresa, the brain”: Yes, indeed, you were . ;-)) But above all: “Teresa, the heart” is what I remember and miss most.

“ Dear Sweet Teresa,

I remember all the fun times we had when you were little - the beach, dance parties, magic shakes, tennis, basketball, and volleyball (though you said you did not like sports), hanging out in the city, driving around Evanston, and walking at Northwestern. I remember the deep conversations and plans we made. I wish we had more time. I miss you and your beautiful smile, spending time with you, your laughter, friendship, quick wit and sense of humor, and sincerity. I will meet you at Crafty Beaver.

*All my love,
Aunt Teresa*

“ I miss her so much. She was the most beautiful, caring & compassionate soul. Funny as all get out, beyond her years as an old soul, anxious passion for change for the better in so many areas. Beyond intelligent..... spoke 4 languages plus sign language, taught at PhD level...

We have many many good memories together. I considered her 1 of my best friends. A tragic loss for her family, friends n the world. Will continue to miss you Teresa but your in the spirt world now and I know how to find you. Peace n love to everyone - Kim
